Room: FNB 3220

Instructor: LEEANNE ROMANE, BA, MLIS

Email: lromane@uwo.ca

Office Hour: By appointment

Course Description

Theoretical and practical issues associated with information literacy instruction. Principles of designing, implementing and evaluating instructional programs to meet the instructional needs of information users. Experience in instruction skills, and the design, delivery and assessment of instructional programs.

Prerequisite: MLIS 9003

Course Objectives

- To explore theoretical and practical issues relating to library instruction and information literacy;
- To introduce the principles of designing, implementing and evaluating instructional programs to meet the needs of the information user;
- To describe and explain learning theories relevant to instruction;
- To apply the principles and practices of adult education to instruction programs;
- To provide practical experience in instructional skills;
- To develop experience in the design, delivery, and evaluation of instruction.

Student Outcomes

Upon successful completion of assignments, readings and class participation, students will be able to:

1. integrate appropriate resources, methodology and technology to promote information literacy
2. identify instructional needs of particular user groups and create materials and services to meet these needs
3. design and implement instructional goals and outcomes based on an understanding of cognitive theories of learning
4. develop effective communication skills for program delivery and establishing strategic partnerships appropriate for the learning environment

Learning and Teaching Expectations

This course is seminar based, and will involve lectures, class discussions, activities, individual and group work, and guest speakers. Class preparation and participation are expected and are key to successful completion of this course. Students are expected to prepare themselves for class discussion by completing weekly readings, and from their own readings of the literature and online listservs and discussion.

Assignments and Evaluation

The following assignments must be completed. These will provide opportunities to research issues in the field, and to develop expertise in designing, delivering and evaluating information literacy instruction.

Class Participation	10%
Microteach	25%
Assignment #1: Instruction Reflection	10%
Finals Assignment: Information Literacy Program Plan	55%
- Proposal	80%
- Presentation	20%

Course Policies

The MLIS Graduate Student Handbook at

<http://intra.fims.uwo.ca/students/handbooks/mlis/index.htm> contains complete details of the program policies. Please contact us as soon as possible if an emergency situation arises which prevents you from attending class or submitting your work on time.

Attendance requirements include punctual arrival at classes. As outlined in the handbook, absenteeism and lateness will be penalized

Preparation and participation

You are expected to read the required readings each week in preparation for discussion of the topic and the readings.

As a guide to participation grading, the instructor will use the following rubric: Consistent, top-quality contributions = 85% or higher; Good level of participation = 75-84%; Spoke but contributed little = 65-74%; Spoke sporadically = 50-64%; Rarely participated = 0-49%.

Class contributions will also be based on the Guidelines for Participation Grades in the MLIS Graduate Student Handbook.

Submitting assignments

Due dates for course work are listed on the course outline. Late assignments will not be accepted unless you have discussed the rationale with the Instructor in advance of the due date, and may be subject to a late penalty.

Style

Please type all assignments and include your name (not your student number), course name and number, assignment title, instructor's name.

Unless otherwise indicated use 11 or 12 point font, single spacing and 1" margins. Marks will be deducted for poor grammar, style or spelling. Please select one of the following style manuals and use it consistently, with the author/ date in-text system, not foot notes or endnotes.

Statement on Academic Offences

Scholastic offences are taken seriously and students are directed to read the appropriate policy, specifically, the definition of what constitutes a Scholastic Offence, at the following Web site:

http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/handbook/appeals/scholastic_discipline_grad.pdf

Plagiarism

Individual assignments must be uniquely your own work, and must contain appropriate credit for works cited. Collaborative work is expected for the group report and presentation, and must contain appropriate credit for works cited as well as clear indication of the contributions from team members.

As outlined in the MLIS Graduate Student Handbook, plagiarism is a serious scholastic offence which is associated with equally serious consequences for your academic achievements. Western's policies require instructors to remind students of this matter in every course. Additional details are available in the UWO Graduate Student Calendar at http://grad.uwo.ca/section_ten.htm

Support Services

Students who are in emotional/mental distress should refer to Mental Health@Western <http://www.uwo.ca/uwocom/mentalhealth/> for a complete list of options about how to obtain help.
