GRADLIS 9315 – Collection Management
Fall 2022

Course Information

Time: Asynchronous. New weekly course material added on Thursday mornings beginning Thursday, September 8, 2022.

Section: 650 (Online – Distance)

Enrolment Restrictions: Enrollment in this course is restricted to graduate students in the Master of Library and Information Science program.

Instructor Information

Instructor: Roger Chabot, MLIS, PhD

Pronouns: He/Him or They/Them

Email: rchabot2@uwo.ca

Office Hours (Questions/Concerns): By appointment over Zoom or phone

Communication: I check my email regularly throughout the day and will usually respond within a 24-hour period. Please put “9315” somewhere in the subject line so that I can effectively triage my inbox. Responses may be slower on weekends. Please plan your work ahead, as I may be unable to respond to questions about assignments immediately before deadlines. Questions that may take some time to answer are best addressed “face-to-face” by making an appointment to meet with me via teleconference.

Course Description

This course provides an introduction to the theory and practice of collection management for print and electronic resources in libraries, including selection tools and criteria, methods of acquisition, evaluation of collections, deselection strategies, preservation and other collection management and development topics.

Learning Outcomes

Course learning outcomes and their relationship to MLIS Program-Level Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of readings, assignments, and class participation, students will be able to:

1. Apply a critical awareness of professional values, standards, and ethics in the context of collections management (PLLO 1, 2, 3, 5)
2. Apply critical awareness of trends and concerns in collection management and development, publishing, and electronic resources management (PLLO 1, 2, 3, 5)
3. Identify and analyze a library's community and collection and develop new collections based off an initial analysis (PLLO 1, 6, 7, 9)
4. Distinguish and understand various review sources for developing collections (PLLO 7, 8, 9)
5. Distinguish and understand essential components of an electronic resource license (PLLO 7, 8, 9)

Course Materials

All the course readings, audio or video files, links, or documents are provided to you directly through each week's lesson in the course OWL site. The great majority of readings (outlined below) are also available through the Western Libraries catalogue (<http://lib.uwo.ca>) and the internet.

Course Policies

Attendance: There are no in-class or mandatory synchronous portions to this course. However, it is advised that the assigned lectures, readings, and assignments for the course are completed in or by the end week that they are assigned or are due. In some weeks there will be no "deliverable" to submit for a grade, however, it is expected that in these weeks you will still engage with whatever reading or lecture content that is made available. It is your responsibility to keep pace with the class and to be aware of due dates or other deadlines (such as drop deadlines). Please be aware that the OWL course management software allows me to see who in the class has been or hasn't been accessing the course materials on a regular basis. I also track views on the lecture videos which I host unlisted on YouTube. Students should plan for this course to occupy approximately 4-6 hours of their time each week.

Statement on Academic Offences: Scholastic offences are taken seriously and students are directed to read the appropriate policy, specifically, the definition of what constitutes a Scholastic Offence, at the following Web site:

http://www.uwo.ca/universec/handbook/appeals/scholastic_discipline_grad.pdf.

Plagiarism: Plagiarism is a serious academic offence. The University's plagiarism policy requires instructors to remind students that, "Students must write their assignments and essays in their own words. Whenever students take an idea or a passage of text from another author, they must acknowledge their debt by using quotation marks when quoting directly from another work and by proper referencing such as footnotes or in-text citations. Plagiarism is a major academic offence (see Scholastic Offences Policy in the Western Academic Calendar)". See the MLIS student handbook for more details.

Health and Wellness Services: Students who are in emotional/mental distress should refer to Mental Health@Western (<http://www.uwo.ca/uwocom/mentalhealth/>) for a complete list of options about how to obtain help.

Accessible Education Western (AEW): Western is committed to achieving barrier-free accessibility for all its members, including graduate students. As part of this commitment, Western provides a variety of services devoted to promoting, advocating, and accommodating persons with disabilities in their respective graduate program.

Graduate students with disabilities (for example, chronic illnesses, mental health conditions, mobility impairments) are strongly encouraged to register with Accessible Education Western (AEW), a confidential service designed to support graduate and undergraduate students through their academic program. With the appropriate documentation, the student will work with both AEW and their graduate programs (normally their Graduate Chair and/or Course instructor) to ensure that appropriate academic accommodations to program requirements are arranged. These accommodations include individual counselling, alternative formatted literature, accessible campus transportation, learning strategy instruction, writing exams and assistive technology instruction.

Potentially Re-Traumatizing Subjects: It is not anticipated that that any of the course content will deal with traumatic topics. I have done my best to provide an exhaustive list of topics and readings for students to investigate beforehand and offer content warnings (CW) where I can. If a student has a previous, or continuing, history of emotional trauma and think some subjects may be difficult for them, please prepare ahead to address these concerns. Please come speak to me or Brandi Borman if you have any concerns about your mental health in regard to course content and I will do my best to accommodate. And of course, please consult the appropriate resources if you require ongoing medical accommodations or support.
